Fully Funded Positions on Carbon Biogeochemistry

The Negev lab is accepting applications from candidates interested in understanding the complex mechanisms of the ocean carbon cycle and their impact on the environment.

We looking for students for a variety of research topics. Our students have access to state-of-the-art equipment and unique setting for scientific discovery and adventure.

Candidates are invited to contact Dr. Gilad Antler: antler@bgu.ac.il